MEN'S COUNCILS
TO MEET AT U. K.Omicron Delta Kappa Will

HAS BEEN ARRANGEDSeveral University Professors Will Be Speakers at Conference

Omicron Delta Kappa and the Men's Student Council will be hosts April 28, 29, and 30, to the 11th annual convention of the Southern Federation of College Students. Ben LeRoy, a senior in the College of Education, is president of the Federation, having been selected at the 1931 meeting at the University of Alabama.

A three-day program has been arranged. Registration for the delegates will be held Thursday morning in the Administration building. A dinner for the delegates at 6:30 o'clock will be the second affair scheduled for the first day. A theater party given by the Kentucky theater will complete the first day's event.

The convention proper will open at 9:30 o'clock Friday morning when the delegates will convene in room 314 of the library. The address of welcome will be delivered by President McVey at 9:45 o'clock. Throughout the remainder of the day and until 3 o'clock problems concerning campus activities will be discussed by leading authorities. Dean W. D. Funkhouser, Dean C. R. Melcher, Colonel O. R. Meredith, Professor M. E. Potter, and Gordon Finley, president of the Men's Student Council, will address the conference.

At 3 o'clock the convention will adjourn to witness the Tilden tennis matches. From 7:30 until 10:30 Friday night Omicron Delta Kappa will entertain the delegates at a dinner dance in the Gold room of the Lafayette hotel.

Saturday the conference will convene at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and will continue the discussion of problems. The meeting will adjourn at 12 o'clock noon and at 2 o'clock the delegates will tour the Blue Grass. Stock farms and Dix dam are special places to be visited.

The Federation first met in 1921 at Georgia School of Technology. Conventions are held annually as clearing houses for various ideas on campus problems. All southern universities and colleges are members of the Federation and the organization serves to promote better feeling between the leading schools of the South.

Besides LeRoy, the officers of the federation are John Wigginton, University of Florida, vice-president; and Charles Wagner, Georgia Tech, secretary-treasurer. Elections of next year's officers will be held at the final meeting Saturday. The place for next year's conference also will be selected at that time.

Delegates to the convention will be housed in fraternity houses during the stay.

Held in Richmond

The university was chosen as the site of the 20th annual meeting of the Kentucky Academy of Science next year, and Prof. George Roberts, assistant dean of the College of Agriculture, was elected to succeed Miss Anna A. Schieb, Eastern Kentucky State Teachers' College, as president of the academy at the meeting held Saturday in Richmond.

Professor Roberts is head of the department of agronomy at the Agricultural College, and is considered one of the foremost workers in this field in the United States today. He has been connected with the university for a long period of years.

Other university faculty members who were elected to offices at the meeting are Dr. A. M. Peter, emeritus head of the chemistry department of the Agricultural College, re-elected treasurer; and Dr. J. B. Miner, psychology department, who was named head of the committee on publications. Prof. R. T. Hinton, Georgetown College, was chosen vice-president.

Twenty technical papers on research done during the past year were read in divisional meetings of the Academy Saturday. The principal speakers of the general sessions were Dr. T. W. Abell, noted Louisville authority on surgery, who spoke on "Some Recent Contributions of Science to the Field of Medicine," and Dr. Charles E. Spearman, prominent psychologist of the University of London, who lectured on "The Nature of Intelligence."

Six of the 20 papers read in the divisional meetings were prepared by faculty and staff members of the university. The members include Prof. J. S. McHargue, D. W. Young, W. R. Roy, Prof. G. D. Buckner, Prof. J. Holmes Martin, W. M. Insko, Jr., Lawrence W. Baker, and Prof. M. M. White.

NEW DUTY TAKEN
BY LAW JOURNALUniversity Publication Will Be Official Magazine of Kentucky State Bar Association

EXTRA ISSUE PLANNED

The Kentucky Law Journal, published by the faculty and students of the College of Law, University of Kentucky, has been adopted as the official organ of the Kentucky State Bar association by the newly elected executive committee of that organization.

The Law Journal is a quarterly publication and contains articles by leading lawyers and law teachers of Kentucky and other states. Many of the articles discuss situations and legal problems peculiar to Kentucky. In addition, students of the law college contribute comments and criticisms of recent decisions of the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

This direct contact with the bar of the state and its more than 900 members will place the law school in intimate relationship with the legal profession. The journal will print announcements and other matters of interest to practicing attorneys, thus making the arrangement of value to them. In addition, the Law Journal will print the annual proceedings of the Bar Association as a fifth issue of the journal.

Most of the details for the new plan of publication were worked out by Mr. William Gess, Lexington attorney and recent graduate of the College of Law, and Roy Moreland, law professor at the university and faculty editor of the journal. The next issue of the journal will appear during the first week in May.

The editorial board is composed of John Bagwell, student editor; Gordon Finley, case editor; Edwin R. Denney, circulation manager; Lon B. Rogers, business manager; Martin Glenn, J. D. Bond, Hugh Broadhurst, William Dysard, Francis Hanks, James Hatcher, Ralph Homan, James Hume, Rufus Lisle, James Lyne, and Rawlings Ragland, book reviews and legislation.

By DELMAR ADAMS
For the second consecutive Saturday the Wildcat track squad was without the services of their sprint ace, John Simms Kelly and for the second consecutive Saturday lost a track meet, taking the short end of a 80-51 score against the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets on Grant field in Atlanta, Saturday.

The Cats made a much better showing against the Yellow Jackets than they did in their southern conference exhibition against Vanderbilt. Scoring 11 first six seconds, and five thirds to four firsts, seven seconds and eight thirds for the Big Blue, Tech was supreme in all events but the distance runs and the jumps. Captain "Jake" O'Bryant won the mile run, after trailing Gegenheimer for three laps, with a last quarter dash. Howard Baker also passed the tiring Tech star in taking a second place for the Blue and White.

Ball getting off to a bad start in both the 220 and 100 yard dashes, was unable to finish better than third in either event. The Tech speedsters Galloway and Kelly showed fine form and would put up a good race even against the ace of the Southern Conference sprinters "Shipwreck" Kelly.

Ed Milliken, fast quarter miler also, could do no better than take a third place, but Captain O'Bryant and Mahan took second and third in the 880 yard run after coming from behind to beat two Tech men.

The meet was the first three place meet of the season for the Wildcats and the extra point aided both teams in piling up their large scores. Murphy, Tech two-miler led for seven quarters but Baker, Big Blue distance star, ran a blistering fast last quarter to beat the field by 30 feet; while "Bud" Hocker, other Big Blue two-miler, beat the exhausted Tech man to the tape for the place position. Both Kentucky men showed the effects of their careful training and drew favorable comments from the crowd.

Ralph Kercheval in three events proved himself the most versatile member of the squad, placing third in the high hurdles, third in the broad jump and second in the 220 yard low hurdles. He also was entered in the javelin throw, but was unable to compete with the powerful Yellow Jacket throwers, whose best distance was 187 feet six inches.

Kercheval surprised with a second in the 220 low hurdles, finishing but a few steps behind Foxhall, Tech timbrotopper who ran the flight of barriers in 25.2. Emmerich took a second in the 120 high hurdles, with Kercheval third. Foxhall was again first with the good time of :16.4.

"Scalpy" Roberts continued his fine high jumping to give his team mates a first place with his five feet 11 one-half inches jump. Porter and McCarty of Tech were tied for second place.

Billy Hubble, who had never broad jumped in competition before.

Sigma Delta Chi
To Have Banquet

Theta Sigma Phi, women's honorary journalistic fraternity, and Sigma Delta Chi, men's journalistic honorary, will hold a joint banquet Tuesday night, May 3 at the Lafayette hotel.

The banquet will be in the nature of an initiation banquet for the recent initiates of both organizations. Members of the faculty of the journalism department will be guests. It is the intention of the organizations to establish this event as an annual custom.

Committees in charge of arrangements for the banquet are Emily Hardin and Virginia Nevins, Theta Sigma Phi, and William A. Shafer, Adrian A. Daugherty and John Watts, Sigma Delta Chi. Speakers for the occasion have not yet been announced.

During the past year, Theta Sigma Phi and Sigma Delta Chi have cooperated on a number of projects. Notable among these was the production and sale of the Kampus Kat, put out by the men's organization, with sales in charge of Theta Sigma Phi.

Dr. McVey Attends
Commission Meeting

Pres. Frank L. McVey returned Sunday night from Chicago, where he attended a meeting of the commission for consolidating state institutions of higher learning in North Carolina.

The meeting was held in Chicago for the convenience of Dr. George A. Works, Chicago, nationally known director of educational surveys, who is the chairman of the meeting. Doctor McVey is said to have discussed plans for the consolidating of schools of higher learning in North Carolina, with other members of the organization.

RUTH WEHLE

Events of the annual May Day celebration to be held Friday, May 6, include the crowning of the May Queen, Ruth Wehle, presentation of Sullivan medals, and the pledging of Mortar Board, senior women's honorary organization. A parade of floats through the downtown section will open festivities which will be concluded that night by the annual spring dance sponsored by SuKy, student pep organization.

The May Queen was selected in the election held Friday, April 22. Attendees to the queen, selected by the votes of the male students of the university are Opal Hubble, maid of honor, and Christine Johnson, Virginia Young, Lois E. Neal, and Lillian Gooch.

The university May Day parade, first event of the day, has attracted considerable attention in the past years, and it is expected that many elaborately decorated floats will be prepared for this year's parade. As is the custom, cups are offered to the fraternity decorating the most original float, and to the sorority which prepares the most beautiful float. The judges will be members of the faculty whose names will not be made public until after the award of the cups. Ed Milliken, member of SuKy, is in charge of arrangements for the parade.

The coronation of the May Queen and the festivities of the court of the queen will be held on the university campus following the parade. As a part of the exercises the program of May Day dances will be presented by members of physical education department, while music will be furnished by the co-ed band.

Presentation of Sullivan medals to the outstanding man and woman of the university and citizen of Kentucky will be features of the convocation program, Friday morning. Selection for the medals is made by a committee of faculty members, and is based on high ideals and achievements.

Mortar Board, national senior women's honorary organization will announce the names of next year's chapter. Bases of election to Mortar Board are scholarship and activities.

The Theta Sigma Phi awards for the best essay on the achievements of women in journalism will be presented.

The annual spring dance, Friday night in the Alumni gymnasium, will be the concluding event of the day. At this time SuKy, which sponsors the entire May Day program, will announce new pledges to the organization.

This year, also SuKy will issue a May Day magazine which will contain the detailed program for the May Day events as well as histories of the various campus organizations and other information of interest to the student body. The committee in charge of preparing the booklet is composed of Ted Cassidy, circulation manager; Floy Bowling, business manager; Nell Dishman, and Gilbert W. Kingsbury, editors.

Room

WORK TO BEGIN TODAY

The state geology museum and survey offices, formerly located in Frankfort, will be moved to the university, according to plans released yesterday by Dr. A. C. McFarlan, head of the university department of geology and director of the Kentucky bureau of minerals and topographical survey.

The moving of museum and offices, which will be begun today under the direction of Philip Esmerus, graduate student in the geology department, is the result of the elimination of the Kentucky Geology Survey and the placement of its work under the direction of the university. The 1932 state legislature abolished the Survey and offices of the state geologist, Dr. W. R. Jilison, and created the Kentucky bureau of mining and topographical survey. When the work was placed under the university, Doctor McFarlan was appointed director.

Work of moving the records, equipment and specimens from Frankfort to Lexington will begin today, with actual work on the museum scheduled to begin soon. The exhibit will be open to the public in the fall. According to Doctor McFarlan, the transferring of bureau offices will be in effect today also and all business of the bureau will be conducted thenceforth at the university.

The old reading room, on the second floor of the Administration building, formerly the university chapel, will house the bureau offices and museum.

William T. Tilden, III, the greatest tennis player of all times, and three other internationally known stars, with whom he is touring the country, have been engaged by Prof. H. H. Downing, coach of the university tennis teams, to play an exhibition man on the U. K. courts at 3 o'clock Friday, April 29.

Tilden and his entourage played in Lexington last September 23. However, Hans Nusslein, professional champion of Europe, and Roman Najuch, German professional have replaced Albert Burke and Bruce Barnes, Emmett Pare, clay court champion in 1929 is still with the party. Professor Downing saw the group perform recently and says that Tilden has made vast improvement in his play by the addition of Najuch and Nusslein.

The exhibition will consist of two singles matches and a doubles match. Tilden will meet Nusslein, and Pare will meet Najuch in the singles. Tilden and Pare will engage Najuch and Nusslein in the doubles.

"Big Bill" Tilden and Hunter visited Europe last October, and one of the results was the decision to have Nusslein and Najuch come to America to play with the Tilden Tennis Tour. Inc. Roman Najuch, the great German professional, is 5 feet 10 and one-half inches in height and weighs 190 pounds, and for a man of his weight he is very active. His racket work is masterly and he prefers to stand in a 12 foot circle and volley the ball to vulnerable parts of the court. He is remarkably accurate.

Hans Nusslein, Berlin, the newest sensation of the tennis world, is just in his twenties. He shot up to the heights of fame during 1931. Today, Nusslein, at least on the wood courts, must be recognized as one of the first five professionals in the world. This young German has developed a remarkable game. His flat cross-court forehand drive is one of the greatest strokes in modern tennis, and he hits very hard off both his forehand and backhand. All in all, his racket work and speedy reactions are marvelous.

J. Emmett Pare, the fourth member of the party, is in Tilden's own words "the first great natural player the Middle West has produced in over a decade, and he seems destined for mighty work." Pare's greatest achievement was the winning of the National Clay Court championship in 1929. The secret of his success is the soundness of his game and the excellence of his stroke production.

The matches will probably be held on No. 2 court on Rose street. This was the court chosen by Tilden before as best suited. Bleachers will be erected to take care of the crowd. If students present their athletic ticket books, the admission will be half of the reserved seat admission.

FOWLER NAMES
'REBOUND' CASTLatest Little Theatre Offering Will Run Week of May 9th; Seasoned Guignolites
Will Appear in Cast

As the closing gesture of a highly successful season at the Guignol, Director Frank Fowler has chosen Donald Ogden Stewart's sophisticated drama of modern marriage, "Rebound," which will open at the little theater May 9.

Plays by Mr. Stewart have been in favor among little theater companies because of their faculty for "catching on" readily. They are usually of a highly sophisticated type, with dialogue whose theme is extremely clever if a bit risqué. Such is the nature of "Rebound," which has as its theme a humorous view of marriage in the so-called "smart set." The dialogue, as usual, is scintillatingly clever, and the play has won high favor wherever presented.

Many familiar faces appear in the cast of the present production. Such seasoned Guignolites as Jean Bullitt Lowry, R. D. McIntyre, Andrew Hoover, Neil Cain, Christine Johnson, and Martha Coleman Johnson appear in the cast, as well as Eleanor Stecker, Mary Person, and Sam Manley. Almost all of these are well-known to Guignol audiences, and should present the play with a high degree of ability and effectiveness.

"Rebound" will close the Guignol's current and fourth season. The season has demonstrated the high degree of skill and effectiveness which has characterized Guignol productions during the theater's development in recent years. Many improvements have been made in the physical equipment as well as the type of plays produced. Lighting equipment, scenery and other essentials to smooth production have been made increasingly efficient.

ELECTIONS

Election time, so long anticipated, so long worried over by those whose interests and good wishes behind the candidates, has come and gone. That the results were not satisfactory to all is a foregone conclusion, since there is no contest in which someone does not go down to disappointment and defeat. Several features of the recent elections, however, are especially worthy of comment as being new developments in the line of university elections.

One such feature was the appearance, in the May Queen election, of a large and enthusiastic Independent vote. The complaint is often made that campus elections are entirely one-sided, controlled by certain organizations, and therefore, not representative of the student body at large. This is not entirely the fault of those organizations. It has been due largely in the past to the seeming indifference of the large part of the student body as to elections or contests of any sort, and if these activities have been entirely controlled by the organizations it has been because they are the only ones who have exerted themselves to bring out a vote. The increased interest and activity of the independent students in the recent election is, indeed, an encouraging sign of a new concern on the part of these students for campus affairs. Elections of any kind can be just only when they are as largely representative as possible, and they can be representative only when a majority of the students are interested enough to vote.

In any election there are always those who, with a defeatist attitude, declare that they see no use in taking an active part or espousing a particular cause, because the election will be crooked anyway. It is this very spirit which prevents the attainment of a high degree of justice in campus elections. The remedy for present election evils is a universal spirit of interest and earnest effort on the part of all. Few reforms were ever effected by means of inactivity.

THE AUDITING COMMITTEE'S REPORT

Through the publication, this month, of its report for 1931-1932, the auditing committee of student activities has revealed the sound financial condition of campus organizations during the last semester. The receipts and disbursements of all groups concerned are accurately accounted for during the specified period, and in the majority of cases, unlike other periods, show a satisfactory balance.

The auditing committee was established at the university as an advisory board as well as an auditing unit in order that it might supervise the financial status of university and student organizations, eliminate undue expenditures, and make for a clear and public understanding of the expenditures of all organization monies. The university senate requires accounting officers of the various entertainments or organizations to submit to the committee an itemized financial report covering the source, amount, and disposition of receipts.

Organizations included in the present audit were the Athletic association, the Block and Bridge club, the classes of '31, '32, '33, and '34, the Guignol theater, The Kentucky, The Kentucky Kernel, the Music committee, the men's and the women's Pan-Hellenic councils, Strollers, SuKy circle, the Women's Self-government association, and the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian associations. Although among them these organizations handled more than $200,000 during the 1931-1932 period, no organization reported a deficit.

During a time of financial stress, more so than at any other, the university and the student body should be interested in the handling of funds in which they have an interest. Although its outward appreciation of the careful disbursement of revenue already realized may be minimized in its endeavor to procure other necessary income, the university cannot but feel pleased over the committee's report. Both the committee and the organizations are worthy of praise for their splendid and earnest cooperation.

SPRING SPORTS

The prevailing tendency among college students at the end of basketball season is to feel that, football and basketball being over, the season for sports is also over. At the University of Kentucky this is far from true, for many opportunities are given the students to engage in the sport of their own liking.

Coaches are provided at the university for track, which includes many different branches of athletic activity. There is also a tennis coach, and excellent tennis courts are provided and kept in condition for the use not only of the team but of all students thus inclined. Easy access to golf courses is provided and teams are organized. Even the ancient and honorable game of horseshoe is not neglected, for pits are provided expressly for the use of followers of this sport.

There is no excuse for boredom or inactivity on the part of any student during the coming spring days. Participation in one of these sports is the best possible cure for that spring fever slump that is so inevitable and unescapable at this time of year.

THE PROM

TWILIGHT ON THE CAMPUS

It is twilight on the campus,
And the burning sun has gone.
The walks are all deserted
As the breezes ruff the lawn.
The tennis courts are empty,
The halls are dark and bare;
And somehow I feel lonely,
And wish I'd not been there.

WITHOUT YOU

Going back again
When summer comes
To those places we have known
And loved—
Will be like seeing dreams
Come to haunt me.
The night breezes will be ghosts
Whispering of other days.

Ah, I will close my eyes
To the sweet moon,
But no matter, loneliness will bring Poignant moonlight to taunt me.

Perhaps, then, miles and miles away
You too, will turn in the night to me.

Then across the stretches of dusty roads,
Across the green hills,
We will feel love winging
Through the star-dusted dark,
And peace will come.

LETTERS

They come, the white, squared papers,
To me from you.
The words of tenderness I hunger for,
And words to tell me what you do
While I am gone.

Oh blessed little trails of ink,
How you fill lonely hours
With your dark magic!

Letters—shuttling back and forth,
Weaving patterns of love-words
Heart to heart.

—M. E. C.

MOONLIGHT

Turning all the world to silver,
Stealing softly through the trees
To make the paths a silvery check-board;
Mellowing the grim, sardonic city,
Laying a gleaming path across the lake,
Sauntering down the verdant country pikes—
And winking at the wistful lovers there,
Regal and unhurried,
Comes the moonlight.

I have built a funeral pyre
On the altar of my heart
To cremate reminiscences
Which you forgot.

And I have rent asunder

And blow them on the debris

Confusing as it seems, Fidelet Joe Ferguson actually had cast the cast. (Plaster Paris, Geraldine.)
The bland sponsor reported the loss of one eyelash; Williams, the need of a shave.

Rumors of the Independents demanding a recount in the May Queen elections must be unfounded. Leaving the Administration building Saturday after the ballots had been counted, the Jeffersonianites representatives appeared highly elated.

Overheard during the elections:

Campette: Oh, she's neither.
She's a Kahpa.

Do you know Rebel? Rebel's a dog.

BOOK REVIEWS

WHAT A LIFE!

Brave New World, Aldous
Huxley, Doubleday, Doran Company,
New York, 1932. $2.50.

Mr. Huxley's last book, Music at Night, was held by many to contain evidence of a change in Mr. Huxley's notions and interpretations of humanity's moods, serious and light. This book, Brave New World, in comparison with such other earlier ones as Annie Hay, Crome Yellow, Those Barren Leaves, and Counter Point would hardly, in tone, technique or content substantiate any claims for a permanent change in the clever grandson of "Darwin's bull-dog" and the grand-nephew of Matthew Arnold (what irony that!). For here we find Mr. Huxley about his cheerful business of administering playful slaps and kicks to dignified back-sides and running slip and rough-shod over respectable and ponderous reputations: the reputations, learning and inclinations of such men as Dr. J. B. Watson, Pavlov, Bradley, William James, and Freud coming in for a good thrum-drum-bing; such names as Cardinal Newman, Shaw, Darwin, Mussolini, Hoover, Marx and Shakespeare being used in a light ironic tone to give a finer point to this satire on a seemingly impending millennium. Henry Ford serving as the god of the "Brave new world that has such people in it!"

The world Huxley presents is one in which babies are "decanated" (96 identical twins in each Bokanovsky group; 150 batches of such—by the Podnapad technique) conditioned by "hypnopædic" process, developed in different groups from Alpha-Plus down to Delta-Minus-Moron; in which life consists of eight hours a day work, sex-harmonized chewing gum, Malthusian belts, Vicious Pads (the bear reproduced), "sexophonists," scent organs, and communal activity in which one serves the many even after death in having 98 per cent of the phosphorus content of his body reclaimed at the crematorium. "Community, Identity, Stability!"—thus the watch-word of this world—"Everyone belongs to everyone else." Here is a world in which "father and mother" becomes "wink and snigger," in which parenthood is smut and emotion anathema. What a life! Here beauty, truth, science, religion have been sacrificed for happiness and soma ("a gramme is better than a damn")—here is stability. What a life!

Yet, even in such a world mistakes happen. And a few mistakes give Mr. Huxley his cue for the novel. Bernard Marx discovers Mr. John Savage on a reservation, brings him to civilization. Savage attempts the salvation of the people and meets destruction—preaching Shakespeare to the end. Mr. Savage, we feel, is Mr. Huxley in our present civilized state, for he has said elsewhere: "It is ludicrous to live in the twentieth century equipped with an elegant literary training eminently suitable to the seventeenth. With the one easily-forgotten mistake of not attempting to explain the creation of life in bottles, it must be said that the whole thing is delightfully astonishing well-constructed and operated. All men are physiologically equal" is one of the principles which control this new world.

"Phosgene, chloroform, ethyl, chloroformate, dichloroethyl sulphide. Not to mention hydrocyanic acid" are merely by-words here.

Written in the now familiar Huxley style of counter point (this last book will, if only for that, please those who admired Point Counter Point. And for those who hold that the test of a writer is an ability to fully assume a particular and objectified point of view this will be an interesting item, for Huxley has projected himself into the (seemingly impending) future just as Pierre Louys (in 1896) thrust himself back into the time of Cleopatra to produce Aphrodite—and the result, for each, was the same: an expression of himself, an act of bravery, a catching, if not a great, piece of writing. Of course, in writing such a book as Brave New World it is practically impossible to be wholly objective—there is too much, unfamiliar to us, to be explained. Just as Pierre Louys was able, by interest, research and his own nature, to do Aphrodite; so Huxley by the same sign (still, as to the learning required for the writing of such a book, it may be well to let Mr. Huxley explain himself: . . . however little one may know about a subject one can always write an article about it, fully assured that half an hour's preliminary study will make one know ten times as much as almost anyone's (sic) readers. . . .) has done Brave New World. He has smelled out the odious aspects of our civilization and tracked them to their ultimate (if preposterous) conclusion; he has played the blood-bound on the track of Pavlov, Watson, Lenin, and Ford; he has discovered their final end and showed it to us. Mr. Huxley's nose, and Mr. Ford's smell! What a life! What a life!

ROAMIN' THE RIALTO

Man Wanted
"Man Wanted," with Kay Francis, David Manners, and Kenneth Thompson, will be shown at the Strand theater next Wednesday. The picture was directed by William Dieterle who directed "The Last Flight."

Kay Francis is in cast in the role of a rich society woman in "Man Wanted." She likes business better than idle pleasure and publishes a society magazine in order to occupy her time. While she works her playboy husband occupies his with debutantes and polo games. Eventually both realize that their life together is mockery and agree to separate. In the meantime Kay has fallen in love with her secretary, played by David Manners, and her husband, portrayed by Kenneth Thompson, leaves for Paris with his latest light-o-love.

The story works out to the complete happiness of all concerned, with the complications ironed out satisfactorily and amusingly. Andy Devine, who is remembered for his work in "The Spirit of Notre Dame," turns in an excellent performance as the comedy relief of "Man Wanted."

The Heart of New York

"The Heart of New York," featuring Joe Smith, Charles Dale, and George Sidney, will be shown at the Ben Al theater next Thursday. The picture is taken from the stage play "Mendel, Inc." and was directed by Mervyn LeRoy.

The story, in brief, concerns a man who is given more to invention of a dishwashing device than to gaining a livelihood for his family. The family has its trials, in the midst of which there are also moments of laughter. Success, when it comes, brings an end to financial worry, but a new series of amusing difficulties. The progress of the story is marked by minutes of continuous laughter and other minutes of strong drama. The combination is admirably brought together under the capable direction of Mervyn LeRoy, who manifests in "The Heart of New York" the same ability to secure pace, drama, and comedy in a story which he demonstrated in "Five Star Final" and "Little Caesar."

Do You Know That—

Joe Smith and Charles Dale were teamed together in vaudeville for many years and also in the stage production "Mendel, Inc." from which the picture "Heart of New York" was taken.

Kay Francis spends most of her time between pictures boating in the Pacific with her husband, Kenneth McKenna, a prominent movie director?

William Dieterle was brought to Hollywood to direct foreign language versions of Warner pictures, but revealed such an unusual directorial talent that he was transferred and given English pictures to direct?

Diogenes Bested As Ed Searches For Honest Light

By JOAN CARIGAN

It is said that Diogenes once went about at midday with a lighted lantern saying that he was in search of an honest man. Being observed carrying about the library a small black box that might resemble such a lantern, stopping often to examine various vicinities by means of the box, "Forty" Pigue, senior in the College of Engineering, was asked whether he thought he could find an honest man that way. "Forty" said that he had no such object in view; in fact, he really hadn't thought about looking for one, and it wasn't a lantern he had anyway.

"Then what?"
"It's called a foot-candle meter."

Still blank.
"A foot-candle meter is an instrument for finding out how much light there is in a given spot."

Curious examination of the box. There was a narrow white screen across the top of one side with a dial and a knob below. Evenly spaced along the screen were grease spots, making the screen opalescent at those points. There was a bulb under the screen at one end. The light from the bulb shone through the grease spots brightly close to the end in which the bulb was located, and more and more faintly through the more distant spots until a point was reached where the light outside the box was as bright as the light that was coming through the spot. The number under this spot, said the engineer, indicated the amount of light that was filling the place where the instrument rested, which happened to be the main desk in the main lobby on the second floor of the library.

"Forty" explained that he was taking readings of the illumination on all working surfaces in the library, and readings for each six square feet of floor space in the building. He is taking three kinds of readings for each position, one on a bright day, a dark day, and a normal day; and readings at five different times during each day. He has made 17,000 readings already and will have made about 127,000 readings when he has finished the building.

All these figures that he is getting will be compiled in table form, and used to map the illumination in each room in the library. The work is for his senior thesis.

It seems that when the architects were making the building, they arranged the lighting facilities for beauty's sake and not for economy or utility. When "Forty" has finished his work he will be able to tell the department of buildings and grounds how they can economize on the lighting situation there, and prove how wasteful are the students who feel that they must have artificial light wherever they go.

Patterson Hall Now Has Unusual Lamp With Pictured Shade

If the date proves a washout the erstwhile gallant need not yawn the clock around till time to take his leave. He has found a new amusement to spend the hours, in the lamp shade in the parlor of Patterson hall.

There are lots of lamp shades in this world, and there may even be several bearing the outlines of a map. But we believe that when within the bounds of this redoubtable map are depicted illustrations representing outstanding events and features of the section of country presented, the shade is decidedly unusual.

The shade was made by Mrs. Hammond Dugan, nee Frances L. Smith, '25, of Lexington. Mrs. Dugan was interested in the sporting history of Kentucky. During 1929-30 she was engaged in some research in the history, geography, and literature of Kentucky. She made the shade with illustrations of sporting events, characters, and other features of Kentucky history and current events, set forth within the limits of the Bluegrass state. Later the shade was presented to Patterson hall.

It is reported on excellent authority that one can have a very amusing time recognizing a figure labelled "Colonel Dick and his rebel yell," and the various modes of travel that have been in use in Kentucky.

Humphrey Appointed Egg Week Chairman

J. E. Humphrey of the College of Agriculture poultry department has been appointed Kentucky chairman of the seventh annual National Egg week, which will be held the first week in May.

The purpose of National Egg week is to attract interest in the food value of eggs. According to the National Poultry council, which is sponsoring the affair, "The hen and her eggs represent the most inspiring and romantic feature in American agriculture." The poultry industry in this country is valued at $1,250,000,000 annually.

Eggs are plentiful and low in price, and their place on the family table merits greater consideration than is often given them, Mr. Humphrey declared.

Officers Elected by Dramatic Fraternity

Officers of Phi Mu Alpha, honorary dramatics fraternity, were elected at the monthly meeting held Monday night at the art center. Ed Barlow, Gatan, was selected president by the members. He succeeds Elwood E. Durand, Jr., Louisville, as head of the group.

Other officers selected by the fraternity are Emier Neuman, Louisville, vice-president; James Scholl, Ulica, New York, treasurer; Roy Haur Jenkins, Lexington, historian; and Prof. Howard Matson, Lexington, sergeant-at-arms.

Let's smoke a MAN'S SMOKE!

When the girls begin to cut corners in our cars and do back somersaults in our planes and borrow our cigarettes—then it's time to take to a pipe!

Call it the last stronghold of masculine defence—or the one pet diversion our little friends keep their fingers off. Call it what you will—there's something downright satisfying, understanding, companionable about a friendly, mellow, MASCULINE pipe! It's a real man's smoke!

And a pipe's at its best when you fill it up with Edgeworth. There's a rare, mellow flavor to the Edgeworth blend of fine burleys that simply can't be touched. It's cut long—to give you a cool, slow-burning smoke. And you'll find it the favorite with smokers in 42 out of 54 colleges.

You can get Edgeworth wherever good tobaccoists sell smokes. But if you've never tried it, we'd like the fun of treating you to that first satisfying pipeful. Just write to Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va.

POEM

"Death cannot end all things, if love denied
Must find fulfillment, as indeed it must,
Though you and I descend into the dust,
And in the earth commingle side
by side,
Yet shall our frustrated ghosts triumphant ride
To some far heaven where our love trust Anoint the bridegroom and the bride.

Then, hushed and dreamlike, shall our footsteps wind Through fields of deathless asphodel where blows
No sharp wind of despair, and we shall find Each other's hands again; and all our woes
Shall be forgot, our spirits sky en-shined,
While heart with crumbled heart climbs in the rose."

Style Tips for the Derby
This is a column strictly for our girl readers, but the boys may read it if they want to know if their date is in style for the derby.

The really chic woman this year is wearing suits, either in that gorgeous regal shade of blue with or without fur, or gray with black or blue accessories. If you do not happen to have a suit, you can still be smart looking in the polo coat which can be obtained in all shades.
If it is a pretty day, be sure to wear white in some way. In Hollywood, white pique vests, for suits, and white pique scarfs, to be worn with silk or wool outfits, are very popular. White mesh is a sure bet for style, especially when the accessories are white mesh gloves and a cute little white mesh hat. Of course, these accessories can be worn with any color of outfit.
Sandals are just the "last word" with sport or evening dress. Toeless sandals are gaining more favor every day.
If Derby Day is a rainy day, as it usually is, you do not have to sacrifice style for comfort. White raincoat with black buttons are very smart looking, as are tailored brown raincoats with matching accessories.

Regular "movie-goers" will be interested in the poem that heads the Society column. It was written by the late Milton Sills and is dedicated to his wife, Doris Kenyon. It is taken from a book of Sills' philosophy, called "Values," which has just been published by the University of Chicago Press. Milton Sills was a graduate of Chicago.

High School Week

Winners Announced

Louisville Male High school was winner of the highest number of points in the Class A contests of the high school music festival which was held at the university the week of March 29, it was announced yesterday by Prof. Louis Clifton, director of the high school week,
and assistant director of the extension department. Frankfurt was declared winner of the Class B contests, and Ormsby Village of Class
C. First place in the achievement contests held in conjunction with the music festival was won by Henderson High school with 125 points.
These schools will be awarded gold loving cups.

Ashland High school, although making a higher number of points in the Class A music contests than did Louisville Male, was ineligible for the class A trophy because of having won it last year. According to the rules of the Kentucky High School Music Festival, a school is eligible for this special honor only once in three years. Barrett Training School of Henderson, with 122 points, repeats its achievement of last year by totalling the highest number of points, and is awarded the scholarship trophy, with Newport and Hopkinsville, with 124 points, tying for second place.

Frosh Thinlies Show Good Form In First Trials

While the varsity track squad held their tryouts for the Georgia Tech meet, Coach M. E. "Peter" Potter had his freshmen track aspirants show him their capabilities and he discovered several potential thinlies stars.

Noble, former Berea athlete, flipped the javelin 185 feet to eclipse any former javelin thrower at the university, either varsity or freshman. He also throws the discus and puts the shot.

The broad-jump was the most contested event on the card, with seven candidates trying out. Shedd, with a leap of 18 feet, four inches, was best, with Taylor's 18 foot jump and Thorne's 17 feet, eight and a half inches taking second and third places, respectively.

Lassele was unopposed in the low and high hurdles and easily qualified. Miles and Taylor were selected for the other two javelin throwing posts. Doug Andrews, brother of Ken Andrews, varsity discus thrower, tossed the iron disc 88 feet to head the aspirants in this event, others to qualify were J. Miller and Miles.

J. Miller from Henderson, star back on the frosh football team stepped the mile in 5:20 to lead the frosh and followed by A. Miller from Male High school and Ross in order. Sherockman was the only two-miler to try for a place on the frosh team and showed good form in his long grind.

A. B. Mahan, brother of Leland Mahan, star half miler on the varsity, ran the half mile in 2:15 to come in first followed by Kinchloe and Karsner. In the 400 Thorne and Gates ran a dead heat; no other frosh tried out for this event.

Craig, Miles, and Shedd finished in the order named in the 100-yard dash; time :11 seconds. Lassele and Thorne staged a fast dual at the finish in the 220, and Lassele nosed out the latter to win the race. Smith also qualified. The frosh have scheduled two meets with Georgetown College, one here and one in Georgetown, and Potter is trying to arrange for several telegraphic meets.

gon State Teachers' College as a model will perfect a constitution this week for approval of the faculty council. Prof. Roy Moreland, of the law college, will draw up the articles of incorporation.

Maury Crutcher and James Shropshire are to make a survey of various fraternities to ascertain as near as possible what and how much of commodities to buy.

All reports of the committee will be made at the council meeting and if they are approved they will be referred for final adoption or rejection to the individual fraternities.

The survey committee wants to solicit the cooperation of fraternities, especially the house managers, in getting accurate data on the amount spent on food and house articles during the year. It is imperative that this information be given to the committee so that they can produce an estimate to compete with wholesalers.

SPRING PRACTICE CONTINUES FOR NETMEN

At the half-way point in the spring basketball season Coach Rupp is working with 20 men who have aspirations of making the Wildcat squad next winter. The spring practice started April 11 and will last approximately 10 days longer.

The 20 men with whom Coaches Rupp and Miller are working at the present time are all first year men with the exception of Bell, George, Davis and Blair. All four of these men saw some service on the varsity squad during the past season. Coach Rupp's principal reason for having spring practice is to get a line on his new material. The freshmen had an excellent team this year and they will likely give some of the old regulars a run for their money next season.

Coach Rupp is planning several long trips next year; so he has a very special use for a strong reserve force. Since none of the first team men were lost by graduation, he Wildcats will have a strong aggregation, and are hoping and expecting a perfect season in 1932-1933.

ANNUAL EDITOR WILL BE ELECTED

Members of Junior Class Will Choose 1933 Kentuckian Head Before May 10

Members of the junior class will hold the election of the editor of the 1933 Kentuckian, university annual, before May 10 in Memorial hall, according to an announcement made by Clarence R. Yeager, chairman of the Board of Student Publications.

The selection will be made from the four applicants for the position who were approved by the Board of Student Publications at a meeting held Tuesday, March 29. The candidates are John M. Kane, Horace Miner, Horace Helm, and I. C. Evans.

Kane, Schneckstadt, N. Y., is a junior in the College of Engineering and is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi social fraternity. He is president of Tau Beta Pi, engineers' honorary fraternity, and recently was pledged to Omicron Delta Kappa, leadership fraternity. He is an assistant editor of The Kernel, and has a scholastic standing of 2.8.

Horace Helm, Henderson, is also a junior in the College of Engineering, and a member of Tau Beta Pi. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity, is a member of Scabbard and Blade and a pledge of O. D. K. His scholastic standing is 2.4.

I. C. Evans, Winchester, is a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences and a member of Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity and of Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity. He is a pledge to Omicron Delta Kappa, leadership fraternity, and has a standing of 1.5.

Horace Miner, Lexington, who has a scholastic standing of 2.9, is a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences. He is president of both Delta Tau Delta, his social fraternity, and of Omicron Delta Kappa. He is a former associate editor of The Kernel, and is an associate editor of the 1932 Kentuckian.

Malcom Foster, president of the junior class, will call the meeting and will preside at the election. The election was to have been held Friday, April 29, but was postponed as it conflicted with the junior engineering tour.

The editor-elect will take the post held by Frank Stone on the 1932 Kentuckian. Finch Hilliard, business manager of the current annual, will be replaced by John Ewing, who was appointed to the position by the Board of Student Publications March 29.

Yellow Jackets Win From 'Cat Trackmen

took a first place in this event for the Big Blue with Spivak of Tech second and Kercheval, third. The distance was 21 feet, two inches.

Johnny Mains, shot-heaving star of Coach Shively's aggregation was unable to do better than second as Cain, Yellow and Black star flipped the iron ball over 44 feet, another local man took third place in this event.

Ken Andrews and Johnny Epps who usually are capable of hurling the discus quite a bit over 115 feet were decidedly off form Saturday and allowed Prather and Cain of Tech to take the first two places, but Epps eked out a third position, while Andrews fouled on all of his good tosses and was unable to place.

Gatlin, Yellow Jacket pole vaulter added five more points to the winners' total by winning this event. Porter took second and Hubble third as they got almost as good vaults as the winner did. The height was 11 feet.

The Wildcats were beaten by a flashy group of four Tech quarter-milers in the mile relay. The Georgians have always been rather strong in this event and their victory was not unexpected.

To Meet Berea Wednesday
Not in the least disheartened by their disastrous trip to Atlanta, the Wildcats will attempt to redeem themselves at the expense of the Berea Mountaineers who will journey to Stoll field Wednesday afternoon. The meet will start at 3:30 o'clock.

The Berea school yearly turns out good track team as several times the team from the Academy of Berea College has carried away honors in the state scholastic meets. They have a nice aggregation of distance men and hurdlers, but seem to be weak in the sprints and weight events. Whether they have a talented lot of shot, javelin and discus throwers this year is not known, but Shively's proteges are sure to take several firsts in these events.

Monday afternoon the athletes worked on a soggy, rain-swept track and field, and the coach was unable to correctly judge their fitness for competition Wednesday, but he intimated that his squad had reached their best form of the year and were ready for all comers. Kelly will be kept out of the Berea encounter so that his leg may have time to properly heal up for the Tennessee meet next week and the conference meet the week after.

This meet will be a three place one with firsts counting five, seconds, three and thirds, one. Both squads will enter three in each event.

The summary:

'Good News' Ready To Go On Boards

the production of "Good News" will be entirely by students. There has been no professional aid in training the singers, dancers or actors, and the making of stage sets and costumes have been in the hands of members of Strollers, as well as management of the business, advertising and publicity departments.

No seats will be reserved for the musical play, but all will be the same price. The reason for the discontinuance for reserved seats members of the publicity staff of the production attribute to a belief on the part of Stroller members that "all students were created equal and endowed with the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of a good seat." Therefore, they say, to prove their equality students will be eligible to be at the door at opening time to take part in the rush for choice places.

An article by Beverly Gregory, Owensboro, a freshman last year in the College of Agriculture, has been published in the Aberdeen-Angus for April 18. The article, "From Tobacco to Pure Bred Aberdeen-Angus Cattle," was written last year as a term paper in the freshman class of animal husbandry.
